

Content Outline

Dee Cea

7/14/20

Project Title: Axolotl Microsite

Axolotls are such strange and interesting little creatures, I think it will be easy to have enough material to fill multiple pages. I'd like to have a navigation sidebar to the left (which minimizes into a hamburger when condensed down, naturally.) Because they are so visually exciting, I'll probably include a healthy amount of pics.

- HOME PAGE/INTRODUCTION: super lighthearted tone, very bubbly
- PHYSICAL DESCRIPTION: color variations, lots of cute photos.
- NEOTENY: they don't undergo metamorphosis, compare to other salamanders who do, compare and contrast how this makes them unique amongst amphibians
- REGENERATION: go into how scientists love studying these little guys because they have some of the best body regeneration capabilities of the natural world (whole organs man!!!)
- ENDANGERMENT/CONSERVATION: address how endangered they are, the destruction of natural habitat, and captivity conservation efforts.
- SOURCES: list of sources/attributions

Wikipedia Page: <https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Axolotl>